

Ride Smart, Ride Safe

As well as respecting country-specific laws and learning the basics, safe scooter riding is all about being mindful of your surroundings when you're on the move.

One thing to keep in mind is that cities typically have three designated areas, each with their own scooter rules:

Slow zones

These are typically tourist or historic locations with a high density of people. We deliberately limit your scooter's maximum speed in these areas to ensure that everyone can use the space safely.

No-go zones

These are areas where riding a scooter is prohibited at all times. This is for your safety.

Parking areas

These are the areas where you're allowed to park. Please park your scooter in these areas to ensure that your city remains tidy.

Check where these specific areas are in your city (via the Bolt app) and always ensure you know where you can and cannot ride.
